

GUTSY Culture

Delivering sustainable and measurable change

The world continues to face some challenging times right now and we're all just doing our best. Leaders have been faced with difficult decisions and sudden changes to their teams and work arrangements. People are working from home for the first time, and juggling Government guidelines, parenting responsibilities and challenging restrictions.

It's important for your Leadership Team to feel supported and armed with the best knowledge and tactics to deliver outcomes and nurture your culture. So how do you harness your culture's power? The answer lies mainly with you and your leadership team. But knowing how to shape a constructive culture and finding the time to do it are significant challenges for leaders today.

Brought to you by the team at TACTICIAN, the Gutsy Culture program provides leaders with an opportunity to step back and challenge their thinking. Most importantly, it leaves them with an action plan for change.

It's not your typical leadership program. Rather than focusing on the basic skills of leadership, this program is solutions focused. It provides leaders with an opportunity to align their team and shape their culture for business growth. Delivered in person or virtually, this program can make a real impact, fast!

"This program was fantastic and unlike any other leadership personalities, the Medifab team got an insight into how we currently lead and communicate and how improvements can be made in the way we lead because of the candid feedback."

What will you gain?

- An understanding of your unique culture and how it's impacting your business
- Awareness of your personal leadership style
- A plan to set your culture where you want it to be
